

PRESIDENT WILL STAND BY ORDER

Directs Negro Troops to Be at Once Mustered Out Unless Proof of Wrong is Presented.

STATEMENT BY SECRETARY TAFT

Washington, Nov. 21.—The war department issued the following statement today concerning the negro troops ordered dismissed at Fort Reno:

"In the matter of the order discharging the enlisted men of three companies of the 25th infantry issued by the president, application was presented to the secretary of war by a number of persons of standing asking for a rehearing by the president, on the ground of which the action was taken. The secretary telegraphed the president of the application and delayed the proceedings of the discharge until the president could indicate his wishes. The secretary was meantime called out of town. No answer was received from the president. The secretary on his return did not feel justified in further delaying the execution of the order of discharge, especially in view of the fact that the secretary then learned that the president had fully and exhaustively considered the argument against the order of the persons who now applied for a rehearing. Accordingly the secretary directed yesterday (Tuesday) that the proceedings for discharge be continued without delay."

Word From the President.

Later in the day Secretary Taft received a dispatch from President Roosevelt and issued the following additional statement:

"A telegram has been received from the president at 1 o'clock today after the statement was given out at the war department, in which he declined to suspend the discharge unless there are new facts of such importance as to warrant calling him. He states that the action was taken after due deliberation and that the only matter to which he can pay heed is the presentation of facts showing the official reports to be in whole or in part untrue, or clearly exculpating some individual. If any such facts later appear he can act as he deems advisable, but thus far nothing has been introduced to warrant the suspension of the order and he directs that it be executed."

Secretary Taft says that immediate steps will be taken to recruit colored soldiers to replace the men discharged. The members of the three companies who were on furlough at the time of the Brownsville affair and three members who are to be tried by court martial will not be mustered out.

The president's order was issued while Secretary Taft was in the west, and was without consultation with the latter.

Secretary Taft has indicated that he is favorable to a reconsideration of the matter, as he believes it is possible, now that the negroes know the penalty will be imposed, to ascertain the men guilty of the disturbances at Brownsville, Texas.

The only men of the regiment discharged are those who were under arrest suspected of causing the trouble. But even against these men no positive proof could be adduced, and the authorities were convinced that if they had been court martialled they would have been acquitted.

President Probes Affair Deeply.

The war department insists that the president's action was taken only after a most exhaustive investigation. Three officers were sent to Brownsville to look into the matter. All made reports which have been printed and are to be published.

Officials of the department are much disturbed at what they call a "misunderstanding" on the part of the public regarding the action in the case of these negro soldiers. Acting Secretary of War Oliver said yesterday that the belief had become prevalent all over the country that the men were ordered discharged because they would not tell the names of those who were really guilty, and because they were black. This, General Oliver said, was not precisely so. The real reason for the drastic action was that the organizations had shown themselves to be dangerous, he declared.

Says Negroes Are Dangerous.

General Oliver said yesterday afternoon:

"If, on account of a feeling that they had a grievance—as was the case in Brownsville—the same companies, or men from them, participated in another disturbance of the same nature in a place to which they were transferred, what would the country say? It is impossible, both for safety and army discipline, to allow the men to remain in the service."

"Some members of the company organizations now ordered dismissed 'shot up the town' at Brownsville, killing one man and endangering the lives of other men, and, as official reports show, of women and children. That's not what soldiers are for. They are supposed to protect citizens instead of endangering their lives."

TOLD VICTIM TO PRAY.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 21.—Samuel Evans shot and perhaps fatally wounded one Strang last night. Three shots were fired by Evans, one taking effect. Evans is at large.

There will be preaching next Sunday morning by Rev. E. A. Bunner, the pastor.

ASK PRESIDENT TO SEE THINGS IN PORTO RICO

American Federation of Labor Wishes Industrial Affairs Examined.

Minneapolis, Nov. 21.—President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, was today instructed to send a telegram in the name of the federation to President Roosevelt at Porto Rico asking him to investigate conditions on the island with a view to giving the islanders self-government, and to better the labor conditions on the island. Mr. Gompers dictated the telegram and sent it forthwith. The committee on President Gompers' report finished its report today. This committee disposed of several resolutions, among them one directing the tabulation and publication of the work of various labor organizations, during the political campaign and to suggest what is the best course for such organizations in future campaigns.

The committee recommended the resolution for adoption and that action was taken.

The action of the Iowa Federation of Labor in condemning Judge Smith, McPherson, of the United States court, for his action against striking machinists of the Santa Fe railway, was sustained by the committee and the recommendation was adopted by the committee.

The resolution demanding that congress recognize the people of Porto Rico as American citizens and that they be vested with all rights as such, passed with the sympathy of organized labor for men in their struggle for better conditions.

GOMPERS IS ENDORSED.

American Federation of Labor Upholds Its Leader.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 21.—All the rumored opposition to President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, which was so generally spoken of at the beginning of the present convention, vanished yesterday.

His recent stand politically and the ideas advanced by him in his annual report to the convention were concurred in by the committee on the president's report, which, through its chairman, Frank K. Foster, reported at yesterday's session. The report said that the entire report should be commended and the federation congratulated on having such a president.

Gompers' request that all lines between unions in this country and Canada be obliterated, and that the federation use its influence toward securing better conditions for wage earners in Porto Rico were approved.

The report also favored with Gompers a bill before congress by which states may protect themselves from other states carrying on convict contract labor.

Criticize Judges; Bar Orientals.

The committee endorsed the report on its stand on injunctions, saying that nothing is so dangerous to labor as the present judiciary. It urged action in remedying it.

It recommended that Japanese, Hindus and all other orientals be kept out of America and said that the Panama canal would better not be constructed if it had to be built by introducing involuntary slaves again into the United States, which would be the practical result if coolie labor was to do the work.

For the first time in the eight days' session John Mitchell took part in the proceedings of the convention. President Gompers desired to act in his capacity as delegate from the Cigar.

HAD MARVELOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH AT AN OIL WELL

One Man Sacrifices Fingers In Order to Save Life of Self and Fellow.

New Martinsville, W. Va., Nov. 21.—Tom Wilson and Arthur Steepleton, oil workers, narrowly escaped death last night in a remarkable accident. The two men had cleaned an oil well and were putting the cap, which weighed four thousand pounds, back on the well. Their tools accidentally slipped, causing the cap to fall on their hands. Oil and gas began to escape, threatening both men with asphyxiation. With a mighty jerk Steepleton released his hands, tearing three fingers off. Almost dead, Steepleton released Wilson and both men fell unconscious from pain and inhaling the escaping gas. They will recover, but their hands were badly crushed and will have to be amputated.

ELKS WILL BUILD A HOME TO COST $60,000

Deal for Property Practically Closed and Plans for House Drawn.

The Fort Wayne lodge of Elks has practically closed a deal for the acquisition of the property situated at the northeast corner of Berry street and Maiden lane, at present owned by J. Ross McEntee.

It is the purpose of the lodge to erect on this property one of the finest Elks' homes in the country. A building that with its furnishings and equipment will represent an outlay of about $60,000 is in contemplation and the plans for which have already been prepared by Architect Charles A. Weatherhogg at the instance of the lodge's building committee.

The property to be purchased by the Elks has a frontage of fifty feet on West Berry street and runs for a distance of 150 feet along Maiden lane to the alley. It is a splendid location and is considered by the committee having the purchase of a home site in hand to be altogether the most eligible location to be found in the city. It is central yet removed from the intense business district.

The plans now on exhibition at the Elks' lodge rooms contemplate a building of three stories and a half-basement. In the basement there will be billiard rooms, restaurant, and entertaining quarters. The first floor will be occupied with ladies' reception room, reading-rooms and lounging-rooms. The second floor will embrace the lodge rooms proper. The third floor will contain four or five handball courts and other provisions for athletic diversions. There will also be a roof garden for which about half the area of the roof will be required.

The building will be of handsome design and the appointments will be the most modern, convenient and complete of any building of the kind in the west.

The lodge will shortly be called upon to give approval to the work of its committee.

Fort Wayne lodge of Elks is in flourishing condition. The order now numbers some six hundred active members and the treasury contains a sum believed to be in excess of $20,000. The plans for financing the home have been worked out and there is no problem of ways and means to confront the lodge if the plans of the committee are approved.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 21.—A formal reply to the bulletin sent by the Indiana State Federation of Clubs is being sent over the state by the committee on call for a special convention of the old state federation of women's clubs, which will be held here Nov. 22. The statement is a dignified rebuke to the method and communications used by the other action to separate the subordinate club organization of the state from the state body.

WOULD TAKE POWER FROM WALL STREET

Speaker at Kansas City Urges the Building Up of Western In- surance Interests.

POINTS OUT BENEFITS OF MOVE

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 21.—At the trans-Mississippi commercial congress which is meeting here in annual convention, this was to be a day of speeches, according to the prearranged program. The topics up for consideration today included the improvement of waterways and levees, trade relations with the South American countries, reclamation of submerged lands, public drainage, matters of insurance control, naval construction and Alaska.

At the morning session the first thing was the call of states for nominations for chairman of delegations, vice presidents, members of the executive committee and members of the committees on permanent organization and resolutions.

Hon. J. E. Ransdell, of New Orleans, chairman of the executive committee of the national rivers and harbors congress, spoke on the "improvement of navigable waterways of the country."

He said in part: "If congress could be induced to adopt the broad and liberal waterway policy carried out during the past century by France and Germany in improving all their rivers and connecting them by canals, so there is first class water communication at all times between all parts of those countries, there are very few places in the union which could not derive the greatest benefit. Very few communities, whose citizens would not receive each year in reduced rates of freight at least one dollar to two dollars for every dollar expended on their waterways. Surely this would pay. An investment that yields a return of one hundred to two hundred per cent. a year is worthy of speedy adoption."

Following the address of Representative Ransdell, C. L. Irvin, of St. Louis, made an earnest talk on the matter of river rate transportation.

Would Share Wall Street.

V. D. Vandiver, superintendent of insurance of Missouri then delivered an address on "the business of insurance from a western standpoint."

Mr. Vandiver advocated building up western insurance companies, saying: "The twenty-three states and territories lying west of the Mississippi river last year contributed to insurance companies $164,270,000 in premiums."

"More money is handled by the insurance companies than by all the transportation companies in the country, and it is the centralization of these immense accumulations in one locality that makes that locality the seat of the financial empire of America."

"Wall street could not control the banks of the United States if its hand did not reach up the full length of Broadway and keep its fingers in the vaults which hold the premium reserves of nearly twenty millions of insurance policies. I feel, therefore, that the most important matter which can be brought to the consideration of this body is the development of the insurance business in this great field which the trans-Mississippi congress represents."

John Barrett's Address.

At the afternoon session John Barrett, United States minister to Colombia, spoke on "trade relations with the Latin American republics."

He said in part:

Certain facts deserving our close attention stand out prominently in the present relations of the United States with the Latin American republics.

The most important one of them in the history of our relations with South America since the declaration of the Monroe doctrine has been the visit of Secretary Root to that part of the world. The great significance, especially from the South American standpoint, of this unprecedented diplomatic journey is now appreciated in the United States. For this reason there is imminent danger that many of the good effects of Mr. Root's tour and speeches may be lost. The United States has not shown, through public interest, that appreciation of the magnificent and enthusiastic reception everywhere accorded him by the South American people, which they naturally expected. Modesty and the delicacy of his high position have prevented the secretary of state from himself describing the details of his treatment, but those who were with him or who closely followed his journey know that nothing else during the history of the United States or of South America has equalled it in both cordiality and extent. Instead of almost forgetting, in the pressure of self-centered interests and other questions, the extraordinary cordiality of Mr. Root's welcome and the commitment to the United States, we should immediately re-perceive the widespread development of what might be termed a "Latin-American movement" in the United States.

Other Nations Active.

The commercial, economic and social conditions of our sister republics invite our prompt and particular attention. To say that it may be "now or never" with North American prestige and trade in Central and South America is not a statement of an alarm or pessimism. There never was a time when European nations and business interests put forth such efforts, as they are now legitimately exerting, to increase their own prestige and trade in Latin-America. There is, moreover, no denying the fact that a considerable portion of Latin-America today is strongly inclined to be more sympathetic, in both friendship and commerce, with Europe than with the United States, because of their reasons of treatment, racial prejudice, language unity, historical associations and closer systems of communication. Germany, France, England, Italy, Austria and Spain are leaving no stone unturned to strengthen their commercial hold in Latin-America, but there can be no criticism of them by the United States. There is abundant room in Latin-America for both European and American trade expansion. These European countries, instead of following, are setting an extraordinary example to the United States. If the people of North America deliberately fail to take advantage of their opportunities, Europeans cannot be blamed for pushing theirs all the more earnestly, nor South Americans criticised because they are more sympathetic towards Europe and Europeans.

Following Minister Barrett and speaking along the same general lines, brief talks were made by Minister Calhoun, of Bolivia; Minister Parlo, of Peru; Minister Cortes, of Colombia; Guereold Amarel, first secretary of the Brazilian legation and the Chilean minister.

STATE CONVENTION OF Y. M. C. A. OPENS TOMORROW

Hundreds of Delegates Now
Turn Faces Toward Fort Wayne.

Up to noon today a total of 240 delegates had filed credentials for the state convention of the Indiana Young Men's Christian association, which will hold its opening session in the First Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon, and it may be safely predicted that this number will be very largely increased before the great body is called to order.

This means that hundreds of delegates now have their faces turned toward Fort Wayne, and the prospect is that the thirty-seventh annual convention will be the greatest in the history of the Indiana association. State Secretary E. E. Stacy arrived in the city this afternoon, and early tomorrow the delegates will begin arriving in large numbers. The local committees on arrangements have made every possible advance preparation looking to the success of the convention. The gathering includes not only the city, but the railroad and student Young Men's Christian associations from every part of Indiana.

Some Large Delegations.
Some of the associations are planning to send exceptionally large delegations to the Fort Wayne meeting. Among these are Winona, South Bend, Marion, Union Christian college, Mifflin, Franklin college, Valparaiso, Indianapolis, Bloomington, Peru, Goshen college, Lafayette city association and Purdue college, Culver academy, Terre Haute, Logansport, Depue, at Greencastle, Elkhart and Earlham college at Richmond. Tomorrow morning the members of the state executive and advisory boards of the association, including President Thomas C. Day, will be brought from Indianapolis to Fort Wayne as the guests of General Manager Emmons in a special car over the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Traction Lines.

The Opening Session.
Rev. H. B. Benschhoff, of Valparaiso, will conduct the special prayer services at the opening of the convention tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and this will be followed by the organization of the convention into a working body. Rev. H. T. Sell, D. D., of this city, will deliver an address at 3:30 on "What is the Bible?" A social hour will follow and supper will be served to delegates and Fort Wayne guests. Day and evening sessions of the convention will follow in accordance with the program already published, the convention closing Sunday evening.

One of the unique features of the convention work will be a series of twelve or more noonday shop meetings on Friday, two or three splendid workers from the convention will be sent to each of the shops on the list to hold a twenty-minute service during the noon hour. These meetings will be held at the Bowser Oil Tank works, the Bass foundry, the Western Gas Construction company, the Packard company's works, the Kullback mills, the Knott-VanArman works, the Rolling mills, the street railway barns and the Lake Erie foundry house, the latter including the workmen from the Archer printing house and the Paul Pulley works.

FORFEITED BOND PLACES CLOUD ON PROPERTY OF BONDSMEN

Petition Will Be Filed to Set Aside Proceeding
—The Courts.

Proceedings will be instituted in the circuit court in a day or two by Charles A. Taylor to have set aside the forfeiture of a surety of the peace bond given by David Robinson in an action instituted by his wife, which never came to trial, but which left a record that placed a cloud upon the title to Taylor's property.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson were divorced several years ago and she had been arrested on a surety of the peace warrant signed by Taylor, Ben McIntosh and Christian Brewer. Afterward they adjusted their difficulties and were married and when the case was called he did not appear, nor did she, and as E. V. Burick, who was then prosecutor, had not been advised of the reconciliation, he asked a forfeiture of the bond and it was entered.

Later the circumstances were made known and a note was entered in the action, but the order granting the forfeiture stood on the records and when Taylor wanted to sell his property he found a lien against it. The entire amount involved was only $100, but it is necessary to have the order set aside. Burick & Burick represent Taylor.

The suit of Jonathan R. Kennedy against Thomas Doyle was dismissed in the circuit court.

Ella Plumadore, as administratrix of the estate of Catherine Gale, has filed suit against William M. Joyce, executor of the estate of George A. Gale, asking an accounting.

In the house at 918 Harrison street, which has been his home for fifty-seven years, Charles Bornemann, a pioneer German resident of Fort Wayne, died early today at the advanced age of eighty-seven years. Mr. Bornemann was well known among the older residents of the city.

He came from his native land to Fort Wayne fifty-seven years ago, and was a tailor by occupation, though he had not followed this vocation for many years. For a period of forty years he served as janitor of the Jewish temple until advancing age compelled him to abandon work and seek the restfulness of retired life. Mr. Bornemann is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Sophia Lade, with whom he resided.

The deceased was a member of St. John's Reformed church. Funeral services Friday afternoon.

KOENEMAN.

Mrs. Katherine Koeneman, widow of Frederick Koeneman, residing at 2841 Barr street, died Tuesday evening at the Lutheran hospital following a surgical operation to which she submitted some days ago. Mrs. Koeneman's age was sixty-eight years, three months and fourteen days.

She was born in Germany, but had resided in Fort Wayne many years, and during the past fifteen years had devoted her time to nursing the sick. The husband died twenty-nine years ago. Surviving relatives include three children—Mrs. Katherine Hambrook and Mrs. Anna Campbell, both of this city, and William Koeneman, of Chicago. There are also eleven grandchildren, a brother, Henry Standard, and a sister, Mrs. Fred Eik, both of this city.

BUDD.

Mrs. Mary Budd died at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. F. Fischer, corner of Old Fort street and Columbia avenue, at the advanced age of ninety-one years. Death was due to an obstruction of the gall duct.

WILL NOT ENDORSE BRANCH.

Governor's Choice for Speaker Repudiated in Home District.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 21.—At a meeting held in this city yesterday afternoon representatives of the Tenth congressional district declined, it is said, to endorse Emmett S. Branch for speaker of the house. There are six representatives in the district and they were all present at the meeting which did not adjourn until late in the afternoon.

The conference evidently agreed to be bound in silence, as none of the members would talk of the outcome or what was done or agreed upon at the conference. It is known, however, that the representatives will not support Mr. Branch for the speakership. Sentiment expressed before the meeting by the different representatives and their political friends to the effect that none would support Governor Hanly's action in favor of Branch.

Those called upon last night said that they had nothing to give out for publication. District Chairman Marshall, who was present, left immediately after the conference for Indianapolis and from there will go to the southern part of the state, but whether his leave-taking was of a political nature in connection with the conference in the afternoon it was impossible to find out.

The young man is exceedingly popular and his many friends, though regretting his leaving the city, wish him great success in his new home. Mr. Arantz will leave tomorrow evening to take up his new duties.

Helped to Install the System of Rural Free Delivery.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Nov. 21.—Francis M. Dice, well known throughout the middle west by reason of his government service in connection with the introduction of rural free delivery, died from heart trouble and complications yesterday.

Mr. Dice was sixty-one years old and was born in Fountain county, his father being Jacob Dice, who was a member of the state legislature in 1852-3. Returning from the civil war in which he participated as a private in company C, one hundred and sixteenth Indiana infantry, Mr. Dice entered Ashbury university and was graduated in 1863. He read law with Colonel W. C. Wilson, of Lafayette, and later opened an office in Covington. In 1876 he was elected on the republican ticket to the state senate. He was elected reporter for the supreme court in 1880.

MEN'S CLUB MEMBERS DINE AND ENJOY TALK PROGRAM

Delightful Banquet in Parlors of Wayne Street
M. E. Church.

Gathered about the banquet tables in the church parlors Tuesday evening, members of the Men's club of Wayne street Methodist Episcopal church thoroughly enjoyed both the discussion of a tempting menu and an evening program of post-prandial talks which followed. About sixty guests were present, and the dinner was finely served, the table being prettily decorated. The centerpiece was a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, and boutonniere carnations were the favors.

Ernest W. Cook presided as toastmaster with accomplished grace and tact, and the program of responses to toasts held interest unflinchingly until its close at 10 o'clock. Conspicuous among these was the address of Dr. S. B. Hartman, who, under the title of "The Old Frame Church," went back to the pioneer days of Methodism in Fort Wayne and gave a thoroughly engaging and very valuable historical resume of the history of Methodism in Fort Wayne, particularly as to the part played in its growth and development by the Wayne street organization.

Others who were heard, with their subjects, were: "The Methodist Church and the Methodist Layman," Rev. C. U. Wade; "Fort Wayne As It Is," H. G. Keegan; "Fort Wayne's Possibilities," Walter E. Cook; "Our Responsibility," H. L. Askew; "The Professional Man in the Church," Judge W. J. Vesey; "The Bible," Prof. J. N. Study; "The Business Man in the Church," F. L. Jones; "The Coming Y. M. C. A. State Convention," J. E. N. Dillhoff; "Our Men's Club," Rev. M. E. Nethercut.

The banquet was served under the direction of A. S. Covadale, chairman of the social committee, and it was thoroughly successful. There is a hopeful promise for the future of the Wayne street Men's club, which already has a membership of one hundred. G. H. VanArman is president and Dr. E. D. Hartman secretary.

makers' union and called on Mitchell to preside.

Gompers had a tilt with Victor Berger, of Milwaukee, representing the Typographical union, who is one of the principal supporters of socialism in the convention. He presented a lengthy resolution in which it was declared that as "trade autonomy in unionism is but the application to the labor movement of the outgrown principles of individualism, the federation should urge on the various international craft organizations immediate settlement of jurisdiction questions by mutual conferences."

Gompers moved that the word "craft" be changed to "trade," which was done. Then the resolution was adopted.

Socialists Are Routed.

Gompers said it would cast a stigma on trade unions to call them "craft unions." Berger insisted that industrialism in trades unions was yet in the future, and that when one attempted to force unions together one drove them farther apart.

In speaking along this line J. Mahlon Barnes, of the cigar-makers, accused the delegates of fighting other workmen instead of the bosses.

It was said that the socialist element intended to stir up trouble at yesterday morning's session, but that a damper was put on the idea by the speeches of Gompers, James Duncan, first vice president, and others.

Resolutions were passed asking delegates from Great Britain to use their influence in organizing, with the assistance of the American Association of Photo Engravers, the men of this craft in that country; that the central labor bodies throughout the country make efforts to organize the newsboys; that the federation appoint a committee of three to meet with backers and ask them to define their policy toward organized labor; that the federation pledge its support to the Switchmen's union in its efforts to improve conditions and that their union be recognized as the only organization throughout the country having jurisdiction over railroad yards.

The charge is made that slot machines of the sort under ban of the law are again in operation in this city. There is one effectual way by which to put a slot machine out of business. In some Indiana cities they have had some very spectacular fires for the flames of which slot machines furnished the food. It may be well for the police department to remember that a slot machine cannot come in and surrender. It must be gone after.

The exposure in The Sentinel a few days since of grossly irregular if not criminal methods in the imposition of fines on fallen women by officers of the constabulary and justices' courts embraces matters that should be thoroughly sifted by the grand jury. No better time to break up such abuses can be found than right now and we trust Prosecutor Nindé will bring the offenses to the attention of the grand jury as soon as practicable.

There is not much reason to doubt that the president will firmly stand by his original order discharging three companies of colored troops "for the good of the service," if convinced that in the first place he was right. No one can charge that the president's action was taken because of any sentiment of race prejudice. No man in the country is more free from nonsense of that sort and no man has ever given higher or more consistent proof of his good sense in that regard.

The government suit against the Standard Oil monopoly may be dragged on to an almost interminable length by the defensive tactics of the trust under prosecution. Government officials at Washington begin to suspect the nature of the Standard's defense. In the department of justice officials smile, it is said, when they read the Standard's statement of a few days ago to its stockholders, the closing sentence of which assured the stockholders "that in this litigation and in all matters affecting the company your directors will see that the proper steps are taken to protect your interests." This is the second statement ever issued by this great corporation, and there is a suspicion in the attorney general's office that the interests of Standard Oil stockholders may be "protected" in some other way than through the employment of eminent counsel to fight the case in St. Louis. It would cause little surprise if after the case has progressed it were discovered that the Standard Oil company, of New Jersey, the holding company of the seventy odd so-called independent oil companies, had disposed of its holdings to some one of its subordinate companies to confuse the situation and cause as much delay as possible in prosecuting the case. As the case against the Standard company is now being prosecuted a serious situation is presented not only for the corporation, but for its individual officers. Mr. Rockefeller and his associates are made defendants personally in this action. To perpetuate the "system" under some other guise would temporarily frustrate the government and prolong the trial, and it is believed to be probable that the Standard Oil company of New Jersey may cease to be the holding company before judgment is reached. Should this be the case the new holding company would be brought into court as a party to the suit now pending, but much time would be consumed in so doing. Department officials are preparing to meet every obstacle that may be thrown in the way of a speedy trial of the issue between the government and the Standard company. It is said by officials that the issuance of the letter to the Standard stockholders is an acknowledgment of the awkwardness of the situation in which its officers find themselves.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 21.—The announcement was made tonight by men who are close political friends of J. H. The Tenth district representatives met at Lafayette yesterday afternoon in response to a call from Representative Gus Cragger, of La Porte county and decided they could not endorse the candidacy of Captain Branch. After the meeting at Lafayette some of the members of the delegation came on to Indianapolis. Gus Cragger, S. C. Dwyer and Curtis Meeker were with Edwards at the Claypool.

SHIP SUBSIDY WILL WIN NEW TRADE SAYS ROOT

Secretary of State Makes Striking Address on South America.

Kansas City, Nov. 21.—Ellihu Root, secretary of state, read a lecture to the American business man last evening in an expressive and thoughtful address upon "The Commercial Relations of the United States With the South American Republics." It was Mr. Root's report to the people of his country concerning his recent visit to the vast domain far to our south. It related without attempt at climax or rhetorical flourish the story of Uncle Sam's shortsightedness in not making the most of a rich and prosperous market within our own hemisphere. The address was delivered before the Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress, which opened yesterday.

Secretary Root paid tribute to the sagacity, the culture and the fairness of the people of South America. He pictured the marvelous strides they have been making in the last few years. He told of the unparalleled resources of the several nations, of their forests untouched, their plains untilled, their mines unexplored. Then he sketched another picture—one of the South American harbors filled with ships of all nations but our own; of fast mail steamers plying between the leading ports of South America and England, Germany, France, Italy, Norway and Spain; of the energetic efforts by European nations to assist these merchantmen and of the somnolence of Uncle Sam in commercial reprisal.

Holds Subsidies Needed.

The secretary of state said there is only one thing for the United States government to do, and that is to grant subsidies to steamship lines of this country that hereafter may be organized for the South American trade. The speaker asserted that in this manner the artificial disadvantages imposed upon American shipping through pristine inactivity at home and extreme enterprise of European countries could be neutralized.

"In my opinion," he said, "this is what should be done; it is the sensible and fair thing to do. It is what must be done, if we would have a revival of our shipping and the desired development of our foreign trade. We cannot repeat the protective tariff; no political party dreams of repealing it; we do not wish to lower the standard of American living or American wages. We should give back to the ship owner what we take away from him for the purpose of maintaining that standard; and unless we do give it back, we shall continue to go without ships."

That Secretary Root intended to make known his views, founded on personal investigation, of Uncle Sam's trade relations with South America, had been announced. He directed his attention at first to a reference to the growth of this nation, of its becoming a creditor instead of a debtor nation, and of its ability today to make for itself new and profitable foreign markets.

Root Tells of Growth.

"We have left the ranks of the borrowing nations," said Secretary Root, "and have entered the ranks of the investing nations. Our surplus energy is beginning to look beyond our own borders, throughout the world, to find opportunity for the profitable use of our surplus capital—foreign markets for our manufacturers, foreign mines to be developed, foreign bridges and railroads and public works to be built, foreign rivers to be turned into electric power and light. As in their several ways England and France and Germany have stood, so we in our own way are beginning to stand and must continue to stand toward the industrial enterprise of the world."

This was the foundation of his later remarks. Continuing Secretary Root said:

Since the first election of President McKinley the people of the United States have accumulated for the first time a surplus of capital beyond the requirements of internal development. We have paid our debts to Europe and have become a creditor instead of a debtor nation. We have faced about.

Our surplus energy is beginning to look beyond our own borders, throughout the world, to find opportunity for the profitable use of our surplus capital, foreign markets for our manufacturers, foreign mines to be developed, foreign bridges and railroads and public works to be built, foreign rivers to be turned into electric power and light.

Coincident with this change in the United States the progress of political development has been carrying the neighboring continent of South America on the verge of the stage of industrialism. Throughout the greater part of that vast continent revolutionary wars have been going on with favor or submitted to with indifference. The revolutionary general and the dictator are no longer the objects of adoration and imitation. Now everywhere the people are eager for foreign capital to develop their natural resources and for foreign immigration to occupy their vacant lands.

Immediately before us, at exactly the right time, just as we are ready to do it, great opportunities for peaceful commercial and industrial expansion to the south are presented.

East Field in South America.

The area of this newly awakened continent is 7,502,848 square miles, more than two and one-half times as large as the United States without Alaska. A large part of this area lies within the temperate zone, with an equable and invigorating climate, free from extremes of either heat or cold.

Further north in the tropics are enormous expanses of high fertile lands stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and lying far above the tropic heats. The fertile valleys of the western Cordillera are cooled by perpetual snows even under the equatorial forests grow untouched from a coil of incredible richness.

The plains of Argentina, the great uplands of Brazil, the mountain valleys of Chile, Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia and Columbia are suited to the habitation of any race however far in the north its origin may have been. Hundreds of millions of men can find healthful homes and abundant sustenance in this great territory.

The population in 1900 was only 122,467,851, less than six to the square mile. This sparse population the production of wealth is already enormous. The latest trade statistics show exports from South America to foreign countries of $745,530,000, and imports of $493,555,400. Of the $500,000,000 worth of goods that South America buys we sell it only $125,000,000 that South America sells we buy $152,000,000, or 204 per cent, nearly two times as much as we sell.

With the increase of population in such a field, under free institutions, with the fruits of labor and the rewards of enterprise secure, the production and purchasing power will afford a market for the commerce of the world worthy to rank even with the markets of the Orient as the prize of business enterprise.

The material resources of South America are in some important respects complementary to our own. That continent is weakest where North America is strongest as a field for manufacturers; it has comparatively little coal, iron, copper, tin, silver, lead, zinc, etc.

After pointing out that North and South America could become reciprocal teachers and scholars socially and economically, Secretary Root declared that the Monroe doctrine is as wise an expression of sound political judgment today as it was when enunciated although the danger of the partition of South America by the holy alliance had passed away.

He then recounted the efforts toward pan-Americanism of the late James G. Blaine, whom he declared to be years in advance of his time. The secretary continued:

But now the time has come. Both North and South America have grown up to Blaine's policy; the production, the trade, the capital, the enterprise, the energy, the resources, the power, the opportunity to follow, and they are free to follow, the pathway marked out by the far sighted statesman of the North and South. In the peaceful prosperity of a mighty commerce.

To utilize this opportunity certain practical things must be done. The government may help to furnish facilities for the doing of them, but the facilities will be furnished by the private enterprise. I will indicate some of the matters to which every producer and merchant who desires South American trade should pay attention.

1. He should learn what the South Americans want and conform his product to their wants. If they think they need heavy castings and not expect them to buy light ones because he thinks they are better. If they want coarse cottons and not expect them to buy fine ones. It may not pay today, but it will pay tomorrow.
2. Both of the purpose of learning what the South American people want and of securing their attention to your goods you must know Spanish and Portuguese.
3. The American producer should arrange to conform his credit system to that prevailing in the country where he wishes to sell goods.
4. The establishment of banks should be brought about. Capital is much needed in these cities, and 10 per cent can be obtained for money upon just as safe security as can be had in Kansas City, St. Louis or New York. An American bank would furnish a source of information as to the standing of the American purchasers to whom credit would be extended, and would relieve American business in South America from the disadvantages which now exist of making all its financial transactions through Europe instead of directly with the United States.
5. The American merchant should acquire himself, if he has not already done so, and should impress upon all agents that respect for the South American to which he is justly entitled and which is the essential requisite to respect for himself. We should give back to the ship owner what we take away from him for the purpose of maintaining that standard; and unless we do give it back, we shall continue to go without ships.
6. The American merchant should acquire himself, if he has not already done so, and should impress upon all agents that respect for the South American to which he is justly entitled and which is the essential requisite to respect for himself. We should give back to the ship owner what we take away from him for the purpose of maintaining that standard; and unless we do give it back, we shall continue to go without ships.

Big Field for Investment.

The investment of American capital in South America under the direction of American experts should be promoted, not merely upon simple investment grounds, but as a means of creating and enlarging trade. There are a vast number of enterprises awaiting capital in the more advanced countries of South America, and there are many others in which the property and the profits will be as safe as in the United States or Canada.

A good many such enterprises are already begun. I have found a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a graduate of the Columbia School of Mines and a graduate of the Colorado School of Mines, all of whom are working close under the snow line of the Andes, in the heart of the continent, upon an American electric line built by a New York engineer, in the heart of the coffee region of Brazil, and I have seen the waters of that river which is the life of the city of Lima.

It is absolutely essential that the means of communication between the two countries should be improved and increased. This includes the construction of railroads and the improvement of existing ones, and it applies to mail, passenger and freight services.

Between all the principal South American ports and England, Germany, France, Spain and Italy lines of swift and commodious steamers ply regularly. There are five subsidized lines between Buenos Ayres and Europe. There is no line between Buenos Ayres and the United States.

The English and the Italian lines have been replacing their old steamers with new and swifter steamers of modern construction, accommodation and equipment. The best way to travel between the United States and both the west coast and east coast of South America is to go by way of Europe, crossing the Atlantic twice.

This woeful deficiency in the means of carrying our trade to and from South America is but a part of the general decline and feebleness of the American merchant marine, which has reduced us from carrying over 90 per cent of our own ships to the carrying of 9 per cent of that trade in our own ships and dependences upon foreign shipowners for the carriage of 91 per cent.

How can this defect be remedied? I think the answer is two fold and the greater cost of maintenance of American officers and crews make it impossible to compete on equal terms with foreign ships. The scale of living and the scale of pay of American sailors is fixed by the standard of wages and of living in the United States, and those are maintained at a high level by the protective tariff. The moment the American passes beyond the limits of his country and engages in ocean transportation he comes into competition with the lower foreign scale of wages and of living.

See Remedy in Ship Subsidy.

The principal maritime nations of the world, anxious to develop their trade, to promote their shipbuilding industry, to have at hand a ready-made auxiliary in case of war, are fostering their steamship lines by the payment of subsidies.

Against these advantages to his competitor the American shipowner has to contend. And it is manifest that the subsidized ship can afford to carry freight at cost for a long enough period to drive him out of business.

We are living in a world not of natural competition, but of artificial competition. State aid to steamship lines is as much a part of the commercial system of our day as state employment of consuls to protect our business interests.

Plainly these disadvantages created by governmental action can be neutralized only by governmental action, and should be neutralized by such action.

What action ought our government to take for the accomplishment of this just purpose? Three kinds of action have been advocated:

1. A law providing for free ships—that is, permitting Americans to buy ships in other countries and bring them into the American flag. The only thing that would accomplish would be to overcome the excess in cost of building a ship in America shipyard over the cost of building it in a foreign shipyard. But

NERVOUS WEAKNESS

As the strength of the chain equals only that of the weakest link, so is the body only as strong as the weakest organ, and as the nerves furnish vital energy to operate the organs, therefore the strength of the body is only equal to that of the nerves.

A normal nervous system has in store at all times enough energy for most any emergency. When the supply runs low sickness attacks the body, showing symptoms the particular organs affected. The organs may even use up the only energy to operate them, as the idle machine lacks steam to put it in motion. Therefore if sickness is caused by lack of nerve power a surplus of this energy will cure and prevent it.

To generate this vital energy there is probably no more effective means than Nerve-Vitalizer, which contains, in a very agreeable solution, the necessary elements which are eagerly absorbed by the nerves as soon as liberated in the stomach.

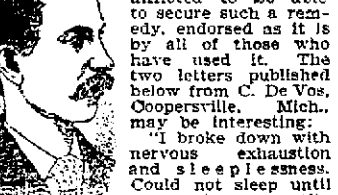

It certainly must be gratifying to those afflicted with nervous weakness to secure such a remedy, endorsed as it is by all of those who have tried it, and who have written letters published below from C. De Vos, Cooper's Landing, Minn.

"I broke down with nervous exhaustion. The organs were using up the only energy to operate them, as the idle machine lacks steam to put it in motion. Therefore if sickness is caused by lack of nerve power a surplus of this energy will cure and prevent it."

to choke down what little I did eat. My attention was directed to Wheeler's Nerve-Vitalizer and I concluded to try it. It had a wonderful effect on me; in a few nights I was able to get all the sleep I needed, my appetite returned, and became as ravenous as a wolf's, my weight increased twelve pounds, my mind became clear, my nerves were restored to health, and I look and feel an entirely different man."

Five years later Mr. De Vos wrote as follows:

"In reply to yours of the 26th inst., would say that I wrote a testimonial for Wheeler's Nerve-Vitalizer some five years ago and it has since been of great benefit to me. The cure has been a permanent one, and I am enjoying better health and weigh more than I did five years. I can now recommend this remedy for sleeplessness and run-down constitutions." as all the materials which enter into an American ship are entirely relieved of duty, the American shipowner's construction is so slight as to be practically a negligible quantity and to offer no substantial obstacle to the revival of American shipping.

The expedient of free ships, therefore, would be merely to sacrifice our American shipbuilding industry, which ought to be saved and encouraged, to a foreign shipowner, and to sacrifice it without receiving any substantial benefit.

2. It has been proposed to establish a discriminating tariff duty in favor of goods imported in American ships—that is, to tax the goods imported in foreign ships. We would that once many years ago and abandoned it.

3. There remains the third and obvious method—to neutralize the artificial disadvantages imposed on American shipping through the action of our government and foreign governments by an equivalent advantage in the form of a subsidy or subvention. It is what must be done, if we would have a revival of our shipping and the desired development of our foreign trade.

We cannot repeat the protective tariff. No political party dreams of repealing it. We do not wish to lower the standard of American living or American wages. We should give back to the ship owner what we take away from him for the purpose of maintaining that standard; and unless we do give it back, we shall continue to go without ships.

subventions would not be gifts. They would be at once compensation for injuries inflicted upon American shipping by the government of other countries. The question of whether or not we should give such subsidies is now before the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries.

Explains Pending Bill.

A bill pending in the house which contains such provisions. It has passed the senate and is now before the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries.

It provides specifically that the postmaster general may pay to American steamships, of specified rates of speed, carrying mail, a regular subsidy compensation not to exceed the following amounts:

For a line from an Atlantic port to Brazil monthly, $150,000 a year; for a line from an Atlantic port to Uruguay and Argentina monthly, $187,500 a year; for a line from each of two Gulf ports to Mexico monthly, $150,000 a year; for a line from the Pacific coast port to Mexico, Central America and the Isthmus of Panama, fortnightly, $120,000 a year; for these six routes, $1,200,000 a year.

Secretary Root then pointed out that although the mail steamship service of the United States was extremely faulty, it netted $3,043,182. He suggested that this profit be directed toward ship subsidies. One quarter of it, he declared, would pay the annual cost for providing the lines he mentioned to South and Central America. In conclusion he said:

The bill now pending in the house is a big framed upon the report of the merchant marine commission. The question whether it shall become a law depends upon your representatives in the house. You have the judgment of the postmaster general, you have the judgment of the senate, you have the judgment of the president. If you agree with the judgment of the senate, which embodies them to become a law, say so to your representatives. Say it is your right and duty to do so. It is your pleasure to hear from you what legislation the interests of your constituents demand.

Catarrh of the Stomach

A Pleasant, Simple, But Safe and Effective Cure for It.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, sickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal conditions will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanston, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux. Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. R. S. Workman, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharges therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, Catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Bluffton Man Cured of ECZEMA

By a Fort Wayne Physician

J. W. Smith, a citizen well known in both Bluffton and Fort Wayne, makes a public statement for the benefit of the public.

"For many years I suffered with eczema of the hands. I was treated by over twenty-five physicians, among whom were some of the noted skin specialists of the country, but none of them were able to cure me. I studied all the books and medical literature on the subject of eczema and tried all the remedies I ever heard of, but was unable to cure myself. I finally heard of the success of Dr. Wells in curing skin diseases and I went to him for treatment. He cured me in a short time, and though a year and a half has elapsed, there has been no return of the disease. I make this public statement as a tribute to his skill and I advise others suffering from skin disease to consult him.

"J. W. SMITH, Bluffton, Ind." This is a fair sample of many more such testimonials I can produce. I cure more bad cases of skin disease than all the other specialists in Fort Wayne. If you have any doubts about it, consult the patients you meet in my reception room.

If you have any skin or blood disease that you have been unable to have cured, I would be pleased to see you.

FINOS HE MUST GIVE TIPS.

Wealthy German Hotel Man Meets Disaster as a Reformer.

(London Mail)

Herr Grauer, a wealthy German hotel proprietor, has carried on an experiment with amazing results on the tipping system. He had a theory that all hotel employees should be paid a living wage and that tipping should be abolished in hotels.

So he started, accompanied by his wife and daughter (the Lasanne correspondent writes), on a three weeks' tour of the chief German and Swiss hotels, determined not to spend a sou on tips in order to test his opinions.

One week's experience of the consequences was enough for his wife and daughter, who returned home disappointed and indignant with Herr Grauer for the discomfort and insults to which he had led them.

Mysterious hieroglyphics and secret signs—known only to hotel employees—announced the arrival of the Grauers, "the non-tippers," at the various resorts they visited. The result was always the same—nobody seemed to want them.

At the stations they were told that the particular hotel they wished to stay at was full; the hotel omnibus was merely "waiting for a few old clients to depart." When they insisted on entering the omnibus there was nobody to carry their luggage and railway porters had to be employed and paid. Arriving at the hotel, their heavy luggage was unceremoniously thrown on the ground and the boxes were damaged.

The maid took half an hour to answer the bell and the "hot water," when it did arrive, was cold. At table d'hôte the Grauers were always served with the last portion. The concierge "did not know" of any interesting trips in the neighborhood and was generally "busy" when they descended to the hall. Complaints to the manager were futile.

Herr Grauer, who persevered with his three weeks' tour to the end, sums up his experience as including the following:

Lost three trunks; luggage unable to be found.

Had four pairs of boots, two being new, ruined; "cause unknown."

Two suits of clothes, one dress, three blouses mysteriously contracted ink stains.

Herr Grauer now believes that tipping is a necessary evil with still a long life.

DENATURED WOMEN

Out of every TEN grown women who read these words, I expect about SEVEN OR EIGHT are "denatured," as a result of some female disease.

At least that is the percentage given by medical writers, as generally found among women.

By "de-natured," I mean LACKING in some of the health functions, that every woman should have in perfect working order.

Unsuitable for a PERFECT wife, mother, houseworker, office worker, etc., by reason of IMPERFECT HEALTH.

Just as denatured alcohol has been made unsuitable for one of its normal uses, that is, as an aliment.

A de-natured woman is only a half-woman, a quarter-woman, or less. It depends how far her illness has gone.

As to the CAUSE, pages might be written explaining this and that, as a development of modern life; but as to proper MEDICAL TREATMENT, or CURE, I have only a few words to say, which I think will interest you MORE than a book of learned whys and wherefores.

There IS a medicine which, for 50 years, has been building up for itself a wonderful reputation, as a curative treatment for the diseases peculiar to women.

You have heard of it—WINE OF CARDUI—a pure extract of harmless, VEGETABLE ingredients, with a healing, building, strengthening, regulating effect, on the female organs and functions.

Have you tried it?

If not, read this simple letter, written by one woman out of thousands who address us, telling, in simple language, the story of her hard times and how she came to be cured. It is much more interesting than a novel; and then, it is TRUE. More still, if acted on, it will SHOW YOU THE WAY TO BE WELL.

R. F. D. 25, Gifford, Ill., Feb. 24, 1906.

Four years ago I had a miscarriage, and it left me in an awful shape. I had ulceration and female trouble so bad. I suffered dreadful misery nearly all the time, with pain in my side and dragging down sensations, and had a continual and annoying discharge. At last I gave up to an operation, but it did not help me and I seemed to suffer worse than before. I suffered for years so much pain in my side. It was something terrible. I could scarcely walk. The doctor told me I would have to have a second operation, as I was so diseased, but to this I would not consent, and took Wine of Cardui instead. Now, I am nearly well. I advise all sick women to try Wine of Cardui. I know it saved me from an operation and I think it saved my life.

A RURAL SEE - SAW FAVOR. THE BOGIE MAN. A WELCOME GUEST.

THE PUMPKIN FARMER.

SOCIETY

Few wedding in Fort Wayne have been signalized with the degree of elegance, together with the display of beauty, as the nuptials of Miss Ophelia Valette Rurode, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Rurode and Howell Cobb Rockhill, which took place at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Rurode, with their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Gorham, of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Taylor, of Newburg, N. Y., Mrs. Rurode's sister, Mrs. Isabel Vonnigerholz, of Decatur, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. H. Brook Sale, of Indianapolis, received the guests in the drawing room. Messrs. Carl Rurode, Ronald Purman, Ben Woodworth and Dr. Allen Hamilton acted as ushers and held ribbons which marked the entrance of the bridal party. The bride had as her maids, her sister, Miss Emma Rurode and Miss Sadie Rockhill, a niece of the groom, and Miss Helen Knight. J. Ross McCulloch supported the groom. Reineke's orchestra played the bridal music from "Lohengrin" and announced the hour for the ceremony by bugle calls. The bride walked with her father. Always an aristocratic looking young woman of quick style and taste in gowning and of fine carriage, it is not true to declare that she was very lovely in her bridal costume.

The bride gown was an exquisite creation of which hand embroidered chiffon was the most pronounced part of the materials used. The skirt of the gown with its petticoats of plain chiffon and silk was floor length and elaborately trimmed with seed pearls and its embroidered pattern. The bodice was a combination of the embroidered chiffon through which glimmered touches of silver cloth nearly hidden by the appliques of lace and pearl trimming. A conventional court train of heavy broad white satin, embroidered with emerald wreaths of pearls and lined with ruchings of tulle completed a handsome and becoming gown. The veil of tulle was exceedingly fine and caught to the hair with a coronet of orange blossoms. The bride's only jeweled ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. The bridal bouquet was made of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Emma Rurode, maid of honor to the bride, wore an elaborately embroidered white tulle, hung over blue tulle and a white satin hat, trimmed with blue uncurled plumes. Each of the bridesmaids carried pink roses. Miss Sadie Rockhill and Miss Helen Knight, bridesmaids, wore lovely but quaint Romney costumes of light blue chiffon tulle with silver, pompadour and lace trimmings. Miss Rockhill's hat was of white tulle trimmed with gold lace and light blue plumes, and Miss Knight's was fashioned of white crepe with one long blue plume and a single large pink rose in its trimming. The ceremony was performed in the library.

Rev. Samuel Wagenhals, of Trinity English Lutheran church, with which the bride's family has always been connected, read the marriage service. The bride and groom stood directly in front of the fireplace on either side of which stood very tall pillars entirely hidden with evergreen and smilax. On each end of the mantel stood tall baskets filled with white chrysanthemums and between the baskets the space was occupied by seven branch candelabra filled with white candles and unshaded. Like candelabra stood about the room which was lighted only by the candles. On top of the bookcases stood baskets of white chrysanthemums and the chandelier was hidden by a grouping of smilax next to the ceiling and by ropes of evergreen and branches of smilax. Evergreen and smilax trimmed the archways between the rooms all over the house. In the reception room the decorations were confined to rose shades to the lights which gleamed through the evergreen and to baskets of beauty roses, one low basket of them mingled with sprigged fern on the piano, another on the mantel and a large one of long stemmed roses on a tall pedestal. All flowers were placed so high that they could be easily seen. In the living room and in the upstairs rooms there were many pink and lavender chrysanthemums used. In the dining room, where the bride's table was set, the decorations were entirely in green and white. Suspended from the chandelier were cornucopias filled with white roses and fern. Near both ends of the table were baskets of white chrysanthemums and between them stood a magnificent bridal cake with the name of the bride in the frosting. Lilies of the valley, wide bands of sea green liberty satin ribbon with enough of white tulle to remove any suggestion of stiffness, ornamented the table and were lighted by white candles in tall Dresden candelabra, one near each end of the table. Coffee was served in the living room. The guests were served supper on small tables. Music was rendered by the orchestra during the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Rockhill will leave this evening for Baltimore and other southern places of interest. The bride will wear a copper colored chiffon broadcloth suit, made with long coat, and hat in same colors, relieved by pink roses. After February the first Mr. and Mrs. Rockhill will be at home at 1301 West Wayne street.

A miniature acrobatic chef in regulation white uniform, juggling a platter on which rests the proverbial turkey done to a rich brown, is one of the many original Thanksgiving favor boxes that will be used this season for bon bons or lics at celebration dinners. Another stunning design, unlike anything that has been seen before on dining tables, is a balloon, equipped with ballast and the other safety guards. The car is occupied by a rustic farmer, who lends just the touch that is significant of the day. A see-saw, with a pumpkin on one end and a turkey on the other, is another effective favor box.

Of the many quaint boxes shown in the shops the chef bonboniere possesses the most interest because it is so unique and can readily be made at home. The box is of simple, inexpensive paper about three inches square. It is covered with a tiny table cloth, neatly laid across the top and glued in place. On this the chef, a small doll with curly golden hair and blue eyes, dressed in white canvas trousers, jacket and regulation cap, lies on his back, with his feet—prettily dressed in patent leather slippers—held straight in the air, balancing on the soles a miniature white paper mache platter on which there rests a tiny crisp brown turkey. In the hand, to give the figure the desired pose, the little cook holds a carving knife and fork. The doll is fastened securely

Miss Erna Tapp has issued invitations for a Thanksgiving party to the members of the Alpha sorority and their friends among the boys. The date of the party is set for Nov. 30. The invitations were unique in the form of a turkey with the invitation written under one of the wings.

Mrs. Alice McClellan, of 1115 Cass street, entertained the members of the Athena Literary club Tuesday afternoon. The contest of the time was an old fashioned spelling bee. The words were pronounced from McGuffey's speller and Mrs. Minnie Bryson won first prize and Mrs. Minnie Bryson the second. Miss Jennie McClelland and Mrs. Ruth Lindeman assisted the hostess in the dining room.

Mrs. Perry Archer and Mrs. Will Leedy entertained at cards this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Archer in compliment to Mrs. Ten Brook, of Grand Rapids. The guests were intimate friends of Mrs. Ten Brook. Thursday afternoon Mrs. W. D. Henderson will have the members of the Honeymoon club at her home in honor of the same visitor and another hostess of the week will be Mrs. W. F. Graeter, who will entertain for Mrs. Ten Brook on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Anna Rothenberger will entertain the members of the B. O. P. club Thursday evening at her home on Madison street. A program will be rendered consisting of musical selections by Miss Martha Luecke and Miss Anna Rothenberger, recitations by Miss Lillian Sanders, Miss Anna Gallmeier and Miss Lena Westhoff, and vocal selections by Erna Hoffman. Miss Lillian Sanders will be the next hostess for the club. Miss Sanders entertained the members of the B. O. P. club Sunday at a 6 o'clock dinner.

Mrs. John V. Linker, of West Main street entertained the Elite club last evening at her home and the guests gave a linen "shower" for Mrs. John W. Romick. Mrs. Romick was Miss Carrie Haller and her marriage to Mr. Romick took place in the afternoon of yesterday. The rooms were beautifully decorated with palms and chrysanthemums. A dinner was served in which the hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. George Streicher and Mrs. John Miller. The bride and groom left this morning for an extended trip to California.

The Eau Claire Leader, of Eau Claire, Wis., has announced the engagement of Miss Daisy Arthur Dean, daughter of Mrs. William Dean, of that city, to Frank Cutshall, of Fort Wayne. Miss Dean has been in business.

Robertson-Gibson. The marriage of Miss Rose Ann Gibson, daughter of Mrs. Mary J. Gibson, and Mr. Henry H. Robertson, Jr., was solemnized in the Cathedral at 7 o'clock this morning. Rev. Father Roche officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Lauretta Zurbuch and the groom by Thomas Robertson. The wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, 1214 Oak street. The decorations of the table were white roses and smilax. Only the nearest relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left the city for a few days and on their return will be at home at 508 East Berry street.

ly to the lid of the box by ribbons wound round its body beneath the clothes. If bought, filled with confectionery, this box sells for $1.25.

The balloon favor box can also be worked out at home. The most difficult part to make is the paper pumpkin filled with cotton, to look as if it were inflated. Cotton batting fills a tissue paper pumpkin which is tied at the top with narrow green ribbon, twisted to look like the natural stem. Silk threads stretched from the top to the bottom further indicate the character of the vegetable. Ropes that supposedly connect the car with the inflated bag are made of small pieces of hat wire, either black or white, and to these the square car painted green or covered with a moss like paper is attached. There are tiny bags in the car for ballast. These are made of white muslin, filled with cotton and fastened to green ropes that hang in a professional fashion outside. In the center of the car a little doll dressed like a farmer, with a battered straw hat, blue jeans and a pink checked shirt stands smiling as if enjoying the novel trip. The car itself is a box containing choice bonbons. The price of this when filled with confection is $1.35.

A see-saw is so delightfully childish that even grown-ups enjoy it, but this pattern will not be so easy to make at home, for it requires some expert carpenter work with fine white wood, as the see-saw rests on the chimney top of a moss grown roof. The oblong box for the ice or candy is covered with a little chimney board, painted in imitation of red or gray blocks. The see-saw is fastened with a screw or nail, so that it works easily up and down. On one end there is a paper mache turkey that can be bought for five or ten cents, and on the other a crepe paper pumpkin, made exactly as the one for the balloon favor. To give proper balance to the see-saw a board foundation is made of thin strips of white wood, painted dark green and covered with a moss like green paper. If purchased, this favor box costs $1.15.

A real "devil" can be made out of a cylindrical candy box by buying an appropriate paper mache head, with wicked looking eyes and black horns, and dressing him in the regulation red robes. A pair of china arms sewed to either side makes possible the carrying of a pitchfork without which no evil one is complete. Ready made this bon bon favor can be purchased for 75 cents.

A witch astride of a paper broom, surmounting a circular box, is effective and simply made, for the gay frock is of a combination of blue, pink, yellow, green and purple, with a vivid red peaked hat. This favor also costs 75 cents, if bought ready to use.

An Everyday Frock of Mohair for Girl of Five

By MRS. JANE FORD.

For everyday wear mohair is particularly serviceable, and comes in so many pretty colors and mixtures suitable for children's frocks that it would be well for every child to have at least one dress of this material. The weaves are much more soft and pretty than those shown several years ago, when at times one was doubtful as to its being mohair or some pretty plaid or striped material.

The design of the little dress shown is particularly adapted to material of this kind, although cashmere, henrietta or velveting would be equally pretty made from this pattern, and perhaps for very small children would be more satisfactory. The pleats are stitched to the waist line, where, after being pressed, they are allowed to hang. It is finished at the neck with the shaped stitched band characteristic of all this season's designs. This band, the bell and cuffs on the sleeves can be cut from velvet to match in color the material, or it could be of a contrasting color.

The pattern is so arranged that the dress may be cut with a high neck and long sleeves, but if it is made as shown in the drawing it would be pretty worn over a tucked gimp of white muslin. Feather stitching and French knots would make a pretty finish for the shaped band and cuffs.

The pattern is cut for girls from one to five years of age, and for a girl three years old two and one-half yards of material forty-four inches wide will be required.

Where there are children mothers are always troubled by furniture being dented. If a fresh scar is rubbed with a broken butter nut kernel and then with a flannel rag on which has been placed a drop of sweet oil, the scar will entirely disappear.

A pocket for children's shoes should hang on the inside of the closet door in the bedroom, sufficiently low so that they may be able to arrange their shoes themselves, and it should be well understood that the shoes must never be left on the closet floor to catch dust.

To press the seams of sleeves take a broomhandle and wrap it tightly with several thicknesses of an old quilt, then sew a piece of muslin over the quilt and you will be able to press the seams without making them look shiny.

S.S.S. HAS BEEN CURING CATARRH FOR FORTY YEARS

S. S. S. is not a new treatment for Catarrh; it has been curing the disease for more than forty years, and so universally successful has it been that it has won an established place in the confidence of the people as a remedy for this disgusting, troublesome and dangerous disorder.

Catarrh is not merely a stubborn or protracted cold, as some people seem to think; it is a deep-seated and serious blood disorder, more generally affecting the body than any other disease. Hardly any part of the system is exempt from the trouble; it attacks the head, throat, stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, lungs and other members, and its effects often completely break down and undermine the entire constitution.

This catarrhal condition is usually first noticed after the contracting of a cold. The inner skin and tissues of the body become irritated and inflamed and secrete an unhealthy matter, which is absorbed into the blood; this foreign matter corrupts and diseases the circulation, and as the blood goes to every nook and corner of the body the poisonous matter with which it is loaded is deposited to set up inflammation and disease of the different members. Catarrh has more disgusting and annoying symptoms than any other trouble. There is a constant buzzing noise in the ears, a watery discharge from the nostrils, headaches and pains in the eyes, stringy, filthy matter drops back into the throat, requiring continual hawking and spitting, the breath has an offensive odor, slight fever often accompanies the disorder, gradually the entire blood supply becomes tainted and diseased and the system completely disordered and upset. After awhile the kidneys and bladder become affected, chronic Dyspepsia or Catarrh of the stomach develops, and the disease settles in some vital place, generally the lungs, because of the constant passage of poisoned blood through them, and Catarrh terminates in consumption, a hopeless and fatal disease.

Catarrh is usually worse in Winter, because of the cold and dampness and suddenly changing temperature, but it is in no sense a disease dependent on climatic conditions for its development. Neither is it a trouble to be cured with sprays, washes, inhalations and such treatment; these merely relieve the reflex symptoms for awhile, but they are fanned into existence again at the next exposure to unfavorable weather.

As Catarrh is a deep-seated blood disease the very best constitutional treatment is required to effect a cure. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and is therefore the remedy best fitted for the work of removing the cause and permanently curing the trouble. Forty years of successful service have proven the worth of this great medicine in the treatment of Catarrh. S. S. S. is peculiarly suited as a remedy for this disease. It is made entirely of healing, cleansing extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks, without the least addition of mineral medicines. S. S. S. goes down into the blood and removes the catarrhal matter and poison, and its gentle acting vegetable properties strengthen and repair the diseased membranes and tissues so that when the cause has been removed the entire system is left in a state of perfect health. S. S. S. also tones up the stomach and digestion, and acts as a fine tonic to the entire system. S. S. S. has been curing Catarrh for more than forty years, and what it has done in the past is a guarantee of what it will do in the future. It is not an experiment, but a real blood purifier tested by time, for blood diseases like Catarrh. Write for our book which contains information about Catarrh, and ask our physicians for any medical advice you desire. No charge for either.

BISHOP DOANE TALKS OF DIVORCE AND MEANS TO CURB EVIL

Legislation, Efforts of Society Leaders and the Church Needed.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The thirty-eighth annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Albany convened in All Saints cathedral in this city yesterday. Feature of principal public interest was the address of Right Rev. William Croswell Doane, who from the foundation of the diocese has been its bishop. His widely known interest in the subject of marriage and divorce was again displayed in his earnest reference to that subject, in the course of which, alluding with approval to the meeting at Philadelphia, of the congress on uniform divorce laws, at which he was present, he said in part:

"It was a satisfaction for us to feel that the calling of this congress on uniform divorce laws was really traceable, through the governor of Pennsylvania, and the president of the United States, to the representations made to the president by members of the inter-church conference in January, 1905. The resolutions which it adopted related naturally and most wisely to methods of procedure rather than to the question of causes, and the final form which the action took is to be embodied in a proposed statute, which, while it enumerates several causes for divorce as existing in different states will express the opinion of the conference that 'desiring to see the number of causes reduced rather than increased,' this congress recommends that no additional causes be recognized in any state, and in those states where causes are restricted, no change is called for."

"Whatever result is to be attained in dealing with this most important question depends upon three things: In the first place, that legislative action can be secured to correct the methods of procedure. In the next place what pressure can be brought to bear by people who really control and govern what is called society. And in the next place by the positive and definite outspokenness of the churches. And I am increasingly hopeful that this church shall take the lead in a strong and definite position as to our relation at any rate to the question of the remarriage of any divorced persons."

Bishop Doane made no direct reference to the case of Rev. Dr. Algernon R. Crapsey, whose suspension from the functions of priesthood has been confirmed by the highest church court, but said in part "the bible is largely an unread and unknown book to children and to people of middle age. The misuse and the misunderstanding of criticism is responsible for this in no slight degree."

The bishop dealt upon the essentiality of the "historic fact" of the virgin birth of Jesus, one of the cardinal faiths of the Episcopal church.

SEES NEW WAR BY CUBANS.

Liberal Leader Declares "Americans Weigh on Country Like a Curse."

Havana, Nov. 21.—In spite of the fact that Governor Magón has received reports from the military commanders in twenty-one towns that absolute tranquility reigns throughout the entire island, there is a general spirit of unrest abroad, due to the uncertainty regarding the future course of the United States. The liberals are becoming more restive day by day under the indefinite continuance of the government of intervention. The liberal leaders are clamoring that the moderate but efficient and well equipped by liberals and they are endeavoring to bring pressure to bear to secure the promise that elections will be held at the earliest possible moment.

General Leyna Del Castillo, the leader of the anti-American sentiment, addressed a liberal meeting last night and made use of the phrase "The Americans weigh on the welfare of the republic like a curse." He predicted that if the government of intervention continued for long the patriots of Cuba would again take up arms in the defense of their independence.

CONVICT SWIMS ICY RIVER.

Makes a Daring Dash for Liberty, But Is Recaptured.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 21.—Frank Tierney, sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment on the county farm, made a dash for liberty and nearly succeeded in gaining his way to freedom. The man jumped up from his work of crushing stone and rushed to the canal. He threw off his clothing as he ran, plunged into the icy stream and quickly swam to the other side. The guards pursued to find that Tierney had rushed over the 100 yards of land separating him from the bank of the Delaware river and was already well out in the stream swimming. Toward the Pennsylvania shore. The river is nearly 1,000 feet wide at this point and Tierney gained the shore before the guards could get a boat and row across. He was recaptured in the bushes, however, and he chose coming with them to being sent to the Doylestown jail until extradition papers could be procured. It was a daring swim and Tierney lost. He is an old ball player and an athlete.

CONRIED TO KEEP CARUSO.

Opera Manager Confident Tenor Is Innocent of Charge Against Him.

New York, Nov. 21.—Manager Conried, of the Metropolitan opera house, said yesterday concerning the charge against his tenor singer: "Caruso will remain through the opera season. He is prepared to prove in court that he is innocent of the unbecoming conduct charged. This is a most grievous accusation."

"To be quite candid, I had Caruso here to dinner yesterday"—Mr. Conried was talking at his home—"and I took him aside and asked him in confidence whether there could be any ground or basis for this woman's charge. I had to ask him. I could not stand for a man of that sort. He assured me that he was quite unaware of her presence until he was arrested. 'His assurance bears out all my experience with him. I am convinced that he is not guilty and I am going to stand by him. It is due simply to a terrible blunder of a zealous policeman.'" tains some tart criticism of Mississippi's public men of the period at which it was written. Mrs. Davis says she preferred Beauvoir as the resting place for her husband, but that the grave there would not be inviolate and she could not afford $1,000 a year, the expense necessary to guard it. She says that while Louisiana and Virginia were anxious to have the remains, Mississippi was silent until after the body had been interred in Richmond.

RELATES SLEEP'S FREAKS IN A LECTURE ON SOMNAMBULISM

French Scientist Tells of Psychological Phases of Sleep-Walking.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 21.—The psychological nature of somnambulism was the subject of a remarkable lecture by Prof. Pierre Jouet, of the Paris Sorbonne at Johns Hopkins university yesterday. In the course of his remarks he said:

"The somnambulist has not our dull memory of things. He sees the objects he speaks of and really hears, feels and touches them, exactly as if they were real.

"When a patient speaks he has a fluency of language and even an eloquence that are superior to his normal powers. When he acts he has a precision and quickness that are wonderful.

The man who ran to a house-top showed more agility than he would have had in his normal state, even if he had not been paralyzed.

"In connection with this precision and certainty of memory we find some strange mental blanks. You speak to patients and they do not answer. You try to make your presence felt, they do not perceive. To make yourself heard you must dream with the patient and speak to him only in accordance with his delirium.

Somnambulists Never Remember.

"When a patient acts back to consciousness he forgets everything that has happened during his delirium. If you try to awaken his memory with questions two things result. You will either do it so vividly that he will fall into a somnambulist state again or he will be unable to recall it at all. "There is a man of 30 with both legs paralyzed, who has been an invalid for years. In the middle of the night he rises slowly from his bed, takes his pillow, bugs it close, walks out of the room, through a courtyard, and climbs to the top of the house.

"His friends have difficulty in reaching him, and must take great care in awakening him, for the moment he awakes his legs become paralyzed again.

"When awakened he does not understand how he has reached the house-top and why he, a man sick with palsy, should have been carried there.

Enacts Dying Scene in Sleep.

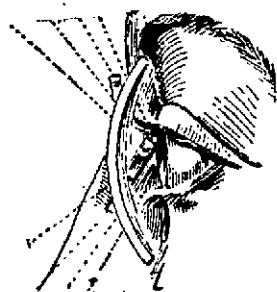

"There is a girl, made ill with despair at her mother's death. They lived in a garret. For two months before her mother's death the girl was under a great strain, tending her mother and earning her living at the sewing machine. After the old woman's death the girl tried to revive the body by lifting it to a sitting position and appealing to it. She now has a singular habit of acting these scenes over again while in a somnambulist state. No actress could rehearse these lugubrious scenes with such perfection.

"The chief psychological characteristics of somnambulism are during the crisis of the huge unfolding of all phenomena connected with the cause of the delirium. The next is the absence of every sensation, every memory not connected with the delirium.

"After the crisis three things are noticeable—a return to consciousness, normal memory, and entire forgetfulness of all connected with the somnambulism."

Ceremonial Scene in the Basilica of St. Peter's, Where Panic Reigned.

A STATE CEREMONY IN ST. PETER'S.

A bomb was exploded in St. Peter's Sunday. The great church was crowded and an indescribable scene of confusion followed. There were no fatalities. As soon as the echoes of the tremendous roar had ceased a canon sought by reassuring words to quiet the people, but in vain. They fled in all directions and many women fainted. Women and children screamed and men tried to protect their families in the crush. The church is so large, however, that there was ample room for the crowd to scatter, and no one was injured. No trace of the perpetrator of the deed has been found.

Since St. Anacletus, who was ordained by St. Peter himself, erected an oratory in 90 A. D., on the site of the present basilica, to mark the spot where the remains of St. Peter are buried, no such dastardly occurrence is noted in the annals of the church.

Sunday was the anniversary of the dedication of the basilica to St. Peter, and it was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Holy relics were exposed, and many thousands of the faithful attended the services. Cardinal Rampolla, formerly papal secretary of state, was among those present. He took part in the service in the choir chapel.

The last mass had just been concluded when the explosion occurred, and only one canon, who had not quite finished, remained at the altar of St. Petronilla. This altar is at the end of the right aisle, and it was where the bomb had been placed. As the canon turned to bless the communicants there was a tremendous roar, which echoed through the lofty arches of the immense dome like a thunder-clap.

At the same time a dense smoke spread through this portion of the basilica and a strong odor of gunpowder filled the air. Confusion and panic at once seized the people. The canon at the altar tried to stem the tide of fear. He shouted: "Do not be afraid. It is nothing; merely the noonday gun!"

Great Work Still Continues Time Proves the Truth

Works of great men live behind them. Some people in Fort Wayne were, and are yet, skeptical regarding the wonderful cures accomplished with Quaker Herb Remedies while the Great Dunn was here, yet the good work still continues. Nearly every day new and remarkable cures are reported. Cases pronounced incurable, diseases reported hopeless, and patients given up by physicians have been permanently and positively cured.

Time proves the truth or fallacy of all claims, and one of the main points the Great Dunn tried to impress on the public while here was that there are two means of trying to expel disease. One by quick, violent-acting medicines and injurious drugs that not only abuse the entire system, but are liable to cause permanent irreparable injury, and the other way by the slow, but sure acting of harmless, mild acting remedies. That the time itself is as necessary to the cure as the remedies, is demonstrated constantly.

His statement on leaving here, in commenting on the large number of cures effected, that there would be many more come to light after he left, seems to be true. Especially those afflicted with chronic complaints and having confidence and faith in the Quaker Herb Remedies, continued taking them. A case reported yesterday in this city illustrates this forcibly. Mr. Thomas W. Devers, 802 North Sixteenth Street, Richmond, Indiana, had been a sufferer for years. His story as told in his own words is as follows:

"I am 47 years old, and have suffered for the past three years with so-called stomach and kidney trouble, dizzy sensations, severe pains in the small of the back, in the region of the right and left kidneys, and pains between the shoulder blades, highly colored urine, oftentimes compelled to get up three and four times a night to void it off. After eating, my food laid heavily on my stomach, which would swell and blurt, producing a gripping sensation, and pains in the stomach; would have palpitation of the heart, suffocating sensation, water brash and sour stomach, constant headache and very constipated. Doctors treated me for kidney trouble, and finally said that they could do nothing more for me. When the Great Dunn was here, I started to use Quaker Herb Extract. After taking it for some time I passed a tapeworm 40 feet long. It was only my absolute confidence in the medicine, and the continued use of it, that accomplished my relief from what I believe was sure death."

Quaker Herb Extract can be obtained at Meyer Bros. Co. Two Drug Stores.

THE WABASH YARD MEN GET A RAISE

Conductors and Brakemen
Get Increase of Four Cents an Hour.

BROKE ALL RECORDS

Pennsylvania Special Travels 72
Miles in 62 Minutes— News of the Shop.

Notice of a four cent per hour increase in the wages of the Wabash yardmen was received yesterday by Agent J. A. Sullivan, which puts at rest for awhile the negotiations that have been on for several weeks, looking towards an increase of this character. The increase, of course, extends to every terminal and other place where switchmen are employed and in Fort Wayne twelve men are affected. They are foremen or conductors and switchmen or yard brakemen. The increase means forty-eight cents more per day to the men, a very handsome addition to their earnings. The Lake Shore yardmen were given similar notice last week, as mentioned by The Sentinel at the time.

72 MILES IN 62 MINUTES.

New Speed Record for Regular Train on Pennsylvania.

Rain and fog probably prevented the breaking of the world's speed record for a regular train this morning. The Pennsylvania Special, No. 29, was delayed on the eastern division last night by some trouble to a freight train and was delivered to the western division one hour and twenty-two minutes behind the schedule time and in the face of adverse conditions, twenty minutes of the last time was made up in the run from Crestline to Fort Wayne and more lost time would have been regained had not the train encountered a fog at Lima which was almost impenetrable to the sight, necessitating slower pace. The seventy-two miles between Crestline and Lima were covered in sixty-two minutes, beating the record of the train over that stretch of track one minute. The entire distance between Crestline and Fort Wayne was covered in one hour and fifty-one minutes, which is the best ever made by a five car train, though it does not come up to the best run of the Special when only four cars were in the train. The train was in charge of Conductor Charles Plimney, was pulled by engine 7210, with Engineer George W. Kensill at the throttle and Fireman H. O. Dermody at the scoop.

DISTRIBUTING TENSION WIRE.

Spools of new high tension copper wire are being distributed along the lines of the Fort Wayne & Wabash Valley Traction company, which is to take the place of the high tension wire now in service, and which is too light to carry the increased voltage of the electric power generated at the new power house at Fort Wayne. All the minor houses along the line will be abandoned; substations are being rebuilt, enlarged and newly equipped, and the present high tension wires are to be replaced by entirely new and heavier wire.

FELL DOWN COAL-CHUTE.

Nicholas Hermann Plunges Headforemost Twelve Feet.

Yesterday afternoon, Nicholas Hermann, an attendant at the Pennsylvania coal docks, plunged headforemost down a coal chute, a distance of twelve feet, and escaped with his life though he was badly shaken up and will be slightly disfigured. His left ear was cut in two and the upper portion completely severed from the head and he sustained numerous contusions and cuts on the face and head. He will be unable to work for a few days.

NEW FREIGHT SHEET READY.

E. F. Austin, traveling agent for the Pennsylvania, announces that the new freight sheets of the Toledo division, the Chicago terminal and the Western division are completed. They comprise a book of 224 pages, of which 187 are devoted exclusively to figures. The sheet gives rates to about 1,000 different points in the Central Freight association territory, and the tables approximately will average 126 lines to the page, which, multiplied by the whole number of pages devoted to figures, gives the total of 23,315 lines.

FRIGHTFUL EXPERIENCE.

Logansport Woman Rides On Outside
Vestibule Step Number of Miles.

Miss Edith Milliron, of Logansport, had a perilous ride on a Wabash fast passenger train last Sunday night. She was late arriving at the Wabash station in Peru to take a car home, and the train had started when she came to the depot almost out of breath from running. However, she swung aboard, but found the vestibule door locked against her and she could not get into the coach, and the train was then already running too fast to safely jump off. She was seen clinging to the car by a person at the station, who well knew that unless the train was shortly stopped the young woman would fall from where she stood and be rushed back into the telegraph office and notified the operator.

In an instant a message flashed over the wires. Two minutes later the engineer on the fast train was surprised to see a block thrown against him at Hartman's switch, west of Peru. Applying the air the train was stopped, and a bare-headed operator stood at the block house to tell the story.

Miss Milliron almost dropped from the steps as the train was stopped and had she been compelled to have ridden to the next block house, she would have fallen from exhaustion. Her long, but rapid trip across the long trestle over Charley creek was most frightful.

IMMIGRATION LAW RULING.

Railways Regard It a Blow at Their Interests.

Passenger officials of western railroads are much disturbed over the decision of the government to send back fifty desirable immigrants who were induced to move to South Carolina by an agent sent from that state. The discovery that the law prohibits the solicitation of immigration came as a shock to railroad men. For a number of years the Southern Pacific has spent thousands of dollars annually in maintaining an immigration agency at Hamburg, the Wabash maintains an agency in Naples, and the Santa Fe has sustained agencies at various points, as the Rock Island and Frisco systems also have done. In speaking of this matter John Sebastian, traffic manager of the Rock Island, said: "It does not seem possible to me that the government will interfere with the railroads in filling up the empty western farm country with a desirable class of citizens." All the efforts that are being made in Europe to this end are intelligently directed and it will be a serious blow to the railroads and to the growth of the farming section if a strict interpretation of the law is enforced.

ELECTROTECHNIC CLUB.

The meetings of the Electrotechnic club, an organization which originated with the employees at the Fort Wayne Electric works, with a view of educating the members, is extending its beneficial influence outside of that circle and is growing in membership and importance each term. Persons interested in mechanical and electrical work, whether they are connected with the Fort Wayne Electric works or not, are now eligible to membership and many have availed themselves of that privilege. The board of directors have "booked" a number of interesting papers on various subjects for the winter term. At the meeting last night the question box was so well filled with inquiries that no time could be given to other matters and some interesting papers that were to be read will be heard at another meeting.

SHORTENED RUNNING TIME.

Beginning today the Lake Erie and Western train No. 40 will leave Indianapolis at 6 p. m., instead of 5:40, as heretofore, and will arrive in Fort Wayne at the same time as before. This is a reduction of twenty minutes in the running time. The change is made on the Big Four between Indianapolis and Muncie, the local stops for this train having been cut out.

FIRE DAMAGES DEPOT.

Fire, which started presumably from an overheated stove, burned a hole in the floor of the Lake Shore depot last night. The fire was discovered about 3:20 o'clock, before it had attained much headway, and it was extinguished without difficulty.

FRED GRUBB IN LUCK.

Frederick Grubb, janitor at Sup't. J. B. McKim's office, is one of five brothers who have inherited a sum said to be about $15,000, the estate of an uncle in Wittenberg, Germany, who recently died. Kuhne & Co., of this city, have been employed to look after Mr. Grubb's interest in the legacy. When he receives the money, Fred says, he will invest in farm land near Fort Wayne.

BOILERS FOR SOUTH AMERICA.

Bass Company Gets Order for Three Water Tube Boilers.

Yesterday a contract was placed at the Bass works by the Cementos Hidalgo company, of South America, whose American headquarters are in Gomez Palacio, Mexico, for three water tube boilers of 250-horse power capacity each. When completed the boilers will be sent to South America to become a part of an extensive steam plant.

A. J. Barrow, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, is off duty on account of the sickness of his wife.

W. H. Sherbondy and Daniel Pelgen are in Davis, Ind., today on business for the Pennsylvania company.

Agent E. H. Kirkland, of the Pennsylvania, has returned from a western trip which consumed about ten days.

E. A. Solitt, of Detroit, Wabash road foreman of engines, was in the city yesterday on business for the company.

Albert Smith is sick and Frank Cowen is off duty on account of sickness in his family. They are electric light employees.

Fred Lindenberg has resigned his position as shop foreman at the Nickel Plate and has accepted a position at the Rolling mills.

Traveling Passenger Agent C. A. Melhu, of the Nickel Plate, is busy today, mailing calendars to his numerous patrons along the line.

J. C. Pinniger, Lake Shore ticket agent, announces a special rate of $2.15 round trip to Chicago on Dec. 4, good returning until the 8th.

Switch engine 514, from the Tilton yards of the Wabash, has been turned out of the Fort Wayne shops, after receiving general repairs.

The Wabash company evidently expects some rough weather soon, as it has had its snow plows fitted up and made ready for business.

A. A. Shaw, who had a hand hurt a week ago, while at work in the Wabash machine shop, has recovered and this morning he resumed work.

Mrs. F. Lebig, the wife of the power house fireman at the Pennsylvania shops, is quite sick and as a consequence Mr. Lebig is off duty.

C. B. Moffat is a new machinist at the Pennsylvania shops. William Volz, a laborer, took a position in the store room at the shops this morning.

E. Stutchen, who was hurt a week ago, and E. Wagner, who was sick three weeks, resumed their duties in the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning.

Machinist John Gribbons, who was off duty a few days on account of the serious illness of his baby, resumed work today, the little one having improved.

Engineer J. C. Pearson, of the Pennsylvania, rounded up 4,882 miles last Sunday, which is probably a record breaker for eighteen days in succession.

Yard Foreman Martin Cramer, at the Pennsylvania shops, who has been ill for two weeks, is improving and will soon be able to return to his duties.

A. W. H. Hornam, of the Pennsylvania boiler shop, had the lid of one of his eyes pierced this morning by a piece of steel striking it. He is off duty for treatment.

F. J. Ruch, a steamfitter, who was sick a few days, reported for duty this morning. L. J. Cox, also a steamfitter, is taking a lay off to attend to some private business.

C. Marhenke took a position at the Pennsylvania car shops this morning. David Smith is a new man in the company's lumber yards, where a number of other big, husky fellows are needed.

C. D. Gorman, of Indianapolis, formerly superintendent of the western and later the eastern divisions of the Nickel Plate, is in the city today to attend the Rockhill-Rurode wedding and visit old railroad friends.

A. J. Wiegand took a position in the Wabash shops this morning. Clyde Dietrich took a position as truckman in the company's freight house. He succeeded Sherman Essex, who quit to engage in other work.

Bert Starcke, assistant cashier at the Lake Shore freight house, is taking a vacation, which he is spending at his home in Brookville, Ind. His wife and son accompany him on the trip.

The following Nickel Plate trainmen are laying off for various reasons: D. C. Potts and W. W. Brown, brakemen; S. S. Deahl, C. Compton and E. H. Galvin, conductors; A. Evans, engineer, and J. Bright, fireman. The Nickel Plate has been compelled to put in a temporary overhead bridge for the accommodation of farmers a short distance west of Bellevue. Double track work is in progress there and it has interfered with travel over the country road.

John J. Andre and W. E. Fridell, of the Vail Cooperage company, have gone to Chicago to attend the meeting of the National Slack Barrel association, which is being held in that city this week.

Allen R. Beach, who was employed in the fan motor department of the Electric works some months ago, but lately residing in Norwalk, O., is the guest of E. K. Allen, of the shipping department of the works.

William Hener, Henry Honerk and Cornelius Graney, boilermakers, have returned from Hartford City, where they were engaged in work upon a steam plant several days. They resumed their duties in the Bass shop this morning.

T. J. Rodabaugh, the retired paint foreman of the Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Rodabaugh left at noon today for California, where they will spend the winter, making headquarters in Long Beach. A number of Mr. Rodabaugh's railway and shop friends were at the depot to witness his departure.

J. Pete, a blacksmith helper at the Pennsylvania shops, resigned this morning and will return to his former place in the Studabaker works in South Bend. R. W. Shaw has been hired to fill the vacancy caused by Pete's resignation. Shaw was employed some time ago in the shop and is familiar with the work.

E. G. Edicson, chief assistant engineer of the Pennsylvania, is here for a hunt in Whitley county with Contractor H. W. Tapp. Mr. Edicson was engineer of maintenance of way of the Western division of the Pennsylvania several years and during the administration of the affairs of that office he resided in Fort Wayne.

Bellevue Gazette: "Allen Huff returned this morning from Fort Wayne, where he was on business with the trainmaster of the third division of the Nickel Plate. Mr. Huff, who was at one time employed as brakeman on the east end of the road, will again be employed by the Nickel Plate, but in the freight department of the third division."

The change in the price of mileage tickets necessitates the removal of the clause in the contract relating to the price and the refund, and the substitution of a new one. The Lake Shore lines will be supplied with an entirely new book, but the majority of the other roads will issue printed slips of the new clause in the contract to be pasted over the old ones by the ticket agents.

Mrs. Stonebrook and mother, Mrs. Hannah Parker, the former wife of Foreman T. A. G. Stonebrook, of the Pennsylvania paint shop, left this morning with the two children of the late Mrs. Guy Parker for Rockville, Mo., where the little ones will be placed with relatives. The reader will probably recall the tragic death of the mother of the children. She was burned to death by her clothing taking fire while at work about the house.

FARMER ROBBED OF $1,000.

New Albany, Ind., Nov. 21.—William Anders, a farmer, three miles north of here, reported in the city yesterday that he had been robbed of $1,000 in gold by a sneak thief who entered his house. He received the money three weeks ago for some timber and kept it in a desk. When he went to get it yesterday it was gone.

DEMOCRATS GOING TO MEXICO.

Mexico City, Nov. 21.—According to the Herald Mexico City is to be the goal of the Cook county democracy on their trip this winter. On their return the democrats will stop at New Orleans in time to take part in the Mardi Gras festivities. The exact date for starting the pilgrimage has not yet been determined but it will be some time during January.

WATCH MAKERS

Require Steady Nerves for Fine Work.

Sitting at a watch maker's bench day in and day out is tedious work, and if the workman suffers from headache, nervousness and indigestion, as he is liable to do from his sedentary occupation, he requires special food to put him right. A Seattle man writes: "I am a watchmaker and have sat pretty constantly at my bench for 15 years, and have suffered badly from indigestion and its many evil effects, such as headache, dizziness, nervousness, etc. I always had a weak stomach until I began to use Grape-Nuts."

"I didn't seem able to find anything that would digest properly with me for breakfast or supper, and my four children inherited the weakness from me. Now, I place 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts in a dish, then set it in the oven. When good and hot I eat it with cream. This with some other food gives me a nice hot breakfast. For the children we give each one 3 teaspoonfuls with warm milk, which softens it and they like it better."

"We have practically the same for supper and are not troubled in sleep with an overloaded stomach. With this diet we keep our digestion in fine condition and our continual good health and fat, rosy boys prove that we are on the right track."

"I have gained in weight and have found a food in Grape-Nuts that has saved me lots of doctors' bills for the children, and has given me a clear head, steady hand and good digestion for the past two years."

"One must have a steady nerve and feel well to work on fine watch work, and the use of Grape-Nuts twice a day has kept me right up to the mark." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Woodruff Has Some Things to Say About Odell.

New York, Nov. 21.—Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the republican state committee, issued a statement in reply to the recent criticisms of former Governor B. B. Odell, Jr., regarding the conduct of the republican campaign in New York, in which he said:

"The only legacies which Odell left his successor as chairman of the state committee was debts to the amount of about eight thousand dollars to be paid and factional disturbances to be pacified. We did not come into possession of a record, list, book or paper of any kind or any material whatsoever which would be of use in the conduct of a campaign."

"In order to overcome these difficulties which confronted us and to conduct a campaign which proved to be one of the most fiercely and bitterly contested in the history of the state and to dispel the feeling of overconfidence which was so persistent, to raise by popular subscription, rather than from corporations and mounted interests the large sum necessary to defray the expenses of the campaign, we, of the working committee, spared neither time nor effort."

An Imitation Stove Will Give Imitation Heat

Avoid the cheaply constructed, putty jointed stove as you would counterfeit money, because it is just as worthless—and in many cases even more so. For not only does it radiate heat badly, but it wastes its original cost many times in fuel.

The majority of manufacturers, attracted by the phenomenal success of Cole's Original Hot Blast Stove, have imitated and copied it ever since it was put on the market. But in looks only have they been able to reproduce this wonderful heater.

For the features which make Cole's Hot Blast so economical in fuel, so effective in heating, and so durable in construction, are all patented and protected. The joints of the ordinary stove are plastered with stove putty in an endeavor to make them air-tight. When the putty dries up and falls out, cold air is sucked in through the cracks—and the valuable gases from soft or hard coal, which should be burned, go up the chimney, along with most of the heat.

Cole's Original
Hot Blast Stove
Burns Soft Coal, Lignite, Hard Coal or Wood

Made without stove putty. It remains air tight during the entire life of the stove, and is sold under the following guarantee, which cannot be made on any other heating stove in the world:

GUARANTEE:

"We guarantee a saving of one-third in fuel over any other stove of this size with soft coal, or lignite, or hard coal, or wood." "We guarantee a uniform heat day and night, with soft coal, hard coal, or lignite." "We guarantee every stove to remain absolutely air-tight as long as used." "We guarantee the fuel door to be airtight and fast proof."

The big expense of heating your home is in the fuel and not the first cost of your stove. Don't let yourself be persuaded to buy anything but Cole's Original Hot Blast.

Ask for free booklet on "Scientific Combustion," which will show you how to heat your home twice as comfortably at one-half the present cost.

CAUTION See the name "Cole's Hot Blast from Chicago," on the feed door of each stove. None genuine without it.
